

I want to express my utter disgust with the perverse nature of the half-time show during the Super Bowl game. I am a Father of three young girls, ages 12, 10 and 8. We were visiting a group of friends who also have young daughters. There was absolutely no warning given as to the nature of what was going to be presented. A great family tradition has been perverted by those television producers and performers who think crotch grabbing, spanking and stripping is appropriate entertainment for what everyone should know is a family rated show. How many young girls were sent the message that it's normal to have their breasts grabbed and clothes torn off? I expect, appreciate and support your inquiry into this matter. Thank you! Tony Snider
